The Oil Producers' Meeting.

The meeting of oil producers held at Oil City on Wednesday last, pursuant to the call of the General Committee on Torpedo and Casing patents, was largely attended, and every important producing district fully represented. The object of this meeting was to afford the committee an opportunity of making a statement of their labors in defending the torpedo and casing suits, and to elicit from the oil men generally a full and free expression of opinion as to the policy to be pursued in reference to these suits.

At the hour appointed the meeting was called to order. E. G. Patterson was chosen chairman, and Dr. G. Shamburg, Secretary.

The committee presented a statement of money collected and expended by them, and an estimate of the necessary amount to defray the expenses of conducting the said defense.

The meeting was addressed by the following gentlemen: F. Crocker, Jonathan Watson, Samuel C. Brown, Mr. Irvine, Wm. L. Lay, J. P. Briggs, Dr. Bly, L. H. Colver, Wm. A. Shreve, E. E. Clapp, S. Harsh, Mr. Bryan, Capt. Keffer, H. J. Beers and others. The speaking was spirited, and the determination of the meeting to conduct a vigorous defense against all actions commenced or to be commenced in the interests of these would-be patentees, was emphatic and unmistakable. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, Certain patents are now held by Roberts and others, covering the use of torpedoes in oil wells, and certain other patents covering the use of casing in oil wells;

And, whereas, This meeting has heard the report of the committee heretofore appointed to investigate the validity of said patents, and is of the opinion that the subject matter of said patents was in common use long before their pretended inventors filed their applications, and that the validity of said patents cannot be sustained if legally contested;

And, whereas, The parties claiming said patents have commenced suits against several individuals who are not able to assume the burden of defending, unaided, the said suits, which are of equal importance to every oil producer;

Resolved, That we, as oil producers, will assume the expense of defending said suits, and will raise the requisite funds to pay the same, and the committee appointed are hereby directed to take such steps as may be necessary to successfully defend said suits.

Resolved, That the matter of the torpedo and casing claims be recommended to the General Committee, with full power and direction to act, as shall to them seem to be for the advantage of those of the public who are prominently interested themselves therein.

Resolved, That we indignantly resent the intimation that this community is not ready and willing to obey any and all orders of the Court.

Subscriptions amounting to $6,400 were made by those present, and the following gentlemen were appointed a Committee to solicit subscriptions from producers, generally, viz:

Parker's Landing and Foster Farm, Thompson and others.

Fulton and Cowan, Wm. Brough, Oil City, Wm. A. Shreve.

Fatal Accident at Parker's Landing.

PARKER'S LANDING, March 16, 1870. Editors Morning Herald.

I have to report a sad accident which occurred here yesterday, resulting in the death of one man. The well where the accident happened is situated on the Geo. Parker farm, near the head of Chasley run, and is being drilled by John Eberly for E. M. Nevins, and others, of Pittsburgh.

There were four men in and about the rig. Two were in the slanty adjoining, asleep, and the other two, brothers, were in the derrick, changing tools. The boiler exploded at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, tearing away every part of the engine house, derrick, &c., and leaving only the sumpson and walking beam. The main part of the boiler was hurled some eighty feet through the derrick, tearing it down and carrying one of the men with it down into a ravine, some twenty feet below the derrick, killing him instantly. His name was Patterson, and he belonged in Pittsburgh. The whole upper sheet of the boiler weighing some 200 pounds, was carried 600 feet, tearing the roof off of another engine house, while smaller pieces were carried from three to four hundred yards. The other three men were not injured at all. There is no doubt but that the accident was caused by gross carelessness on the part of those who had charge of the well, although it is said that there was only thirty pounds of steam and plenty of water, but no one man can believe such a story. It is a wonder there are so few accidents when it is a noted fact that one-half the men in charge of boilers know nothing about them. We would advise owners of boilers to place Ashcroft's low-water detector on them, which we consider a sure preventative against explosion, and thereby save a vast amount of property, and many lives. I believe A. W. Coburn has the sale of them at Parker's Landing. Your truly, BROWN.

A MAN by the name of Lyman Gates, who during the past year or two has worked in this place and Titusville for various men at various kinds of employment, lately having come to the New England Hotel on last Wednesday, feeling quite unwell and destitute of money, asked of the proprietors, Messrs. Hathaway & Fulmer, the privilege of remaining until he should get well which was unhesitatingly granted.

Mr. Gates continued to decline until yesterday morning about 8 o'clock when he died. He was 28 years of age, and leaves a wife and two children somewhere in the New England States. If exchanges will notice the fact of his death so that it will come to the knowledge of his friends, they will confer a favor on the bereaved. Pleasantville, Pa. Light.

MEANING AUCTION.—I will sell at auction, at 10 o'clock a. m., Friday, March 18, 1870, all the beds, bedding, tables, chairs, desks, bedsteads, crockery, cutlery, bar and bar fixtures, a barber chair, and all the furniture in the Atlantic House.

The Feast of Purim.

Yesterday, the 17th inst., was the Feast of Purim, a domestic holiday among the Jewish race. It is seldom commemorated in a public manner, but rather in the social circle. Our fellow townsman, Mr. G. Frey, made it the occasion of a private party at his own house, between sixty and seventy guests being present, and all appearing merrily. The festivities continued till a late hour.

Concerning the origin of the festival, the reader is referred to the Book of Esther, Old Testament, wherein it is told how King Ahasuerus, "who reigned from India even unto Ethiopia, over a hundred and seven and twenty provinces," 2,200 years ago, put away his Queen Vashti for disobedience, and elevated Esther, a Jewess, to "royal estate" in her place; how Mordecai, her cousin, saved the King's life from assassination; how Haman, the Agagite and first Minister to the King, had determined to destroy the Jewish nation and wipe out the name of Israel, and how, by the intercession of Queen Esther and Mordecai he failed, and was himself hanged on the gallows "fifty feet high," which he had erected for his enemy, the Queen's cousin.

"And the Jews had light and gladness and joy and honor. And in every province and in every city, whithersoever the King's commandment and his decree came, the Jews were glad, and there was a day of good and glad day."

And many of the people of the land became Jews, for the fear of the Jews fell upon them. The thirteen and fourteen days of the twelfth month, called the month of Adar, corresponding with Thursday and Friday of this week, the Jews called Purim, and ordained and took upon them and upon their seed, and upon all such as joined themselves unto them, so as it should not fail, that they should observe these two days according to their writing and according to their appointed time every year. And that these days should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, every family, every province and every city, and that they should observe them, not fail from among the Jews, nor the memorial of their perish from their seed.

This command and injunction of their forefathers, made 2,200 years ago, the Jews have faithfully kept. The most opposite views of religious authority do not interfere with the celebration. Radicals and conservatives, reformers and orthodox, join heartily in commemorating his deliverance from the clutches of Haman.

"They eat heartily," says a Jewish writer on this feast, "drink abundantly, and exchange gifts, one with the other, and more especially send from their superabundant stores presents to the poor and the needy. Once they feel happy to state, 'We bring you an offering in accordance with our hearts' best emotions, that you may with us enjoy yourselves; for although your lot has been cast to suffer from adverse fate, still as the word Purim signifies lot, or chance, may your lot therefore be to celebrate the feast from your own resources.'"

On these days, calls in masks on friends, especially among the young people, are customary.

HARD CURRENCY.—On Tuesday, the 15th inst., the law passed by the Ottawa Parliament, for the purpose of abating the "silver nuisance" went into effect in Canada. It allows American silver coin to circulate only at a discount of twenty per cent, the half dollar passing for forty cents and the other coins proportionately. It is believed that the public sentiment in Canada upon this question is such as to render the act operative and effective. The people there rejoice at the prospect of getting rid of the surplus small change, and will not hesitate to make some sacrifices to accomplish the desired result. The banks holding the unprofitable coin will seize upon an early opportunity to dispose of it with the least possible loss. The new law makes the exportation of silver to this country a profitable speculation even though it be disposed of at par rates with greenbacks. For example, $100 in silver can be bought in Canada for $80 in gold—provided that the holders do not propose to reap the benefit of the exchange themselves. The premium on the gold at, say 12 per cent, which is more than the average daily rate at present, is $9.60. Add to this aggregate of $89.60 all reasonable charges for brokerage, freight and insurance, and there will remain a margin of at least seven or eight per cent for profit. A recent dispatch stated that three million dollars of silver are expected from Canada this week consigned to banks in New York. Our institution there has no less than fifty-two kegs of silver in its vaults. The business public will gladly welcome the return of the old coin to our shores.

THE Caledonia investigation drags its slow length along. The last exposure is that of Butler, of Tennessee, and resolutions for his expulsion have been reported, and were to be acted on yesterday. Whittemore escaped the disgrace of expulsion by resignation; a Kentucky member adopted the same tactics, but the Governor would not be a party to this evasion and subterfuge, so Gallodry will have to face the music.

Torpedoes.

TITUSVILLE, March 15, 1870. Editors Morning Herald.

DEAR SIR: Since the decision rendered by Judge McCandless in the case of Roberts vs. Dickens et al., reports are being circulated, and which have reached us, to the effect that the Roberts Torpedo Company were about to raise the prices of their torpedoes. We wish, through the medium of your columns, to assure the oil producers that the prices for torpedoes will be kept at their present low rates.

The only change they propose to make is to require their agents to collect their bills for torpedoes promptly, and never to allow them to run longer than thirty days. By this means the Company are in hopes of further reducing the prices of their torpedoes. W. B. ROBERTS, Pres't Roberts Petroleum Torpedo Co.

CINCINNATI, MARCH 18, 1870.

Anna Dickinson and the Soldiers' Home.

The following is from the Dayton Journal account of Anna Dickinson's visit to the Soldiers' Home: When she turned to the veterans, her beautiful eyes filled with tears, while she tried in vain to fling away with her white jeweled fingers, and the after half of the evening when I was asked that I couldn't talk to you, but I must with you. Had it been mere sympathy, it would have been perfect, but every body saw that truly womanly it was, and it was the best thing that has happened in that way at the Soldiers' Home. It made other people not used to the melting mood, whip out their handkerchiefs. The women in the audience cried like women, and the men felt very much in sympathy with Anna.

After this perfectly happy episode, Anna was herself again. Her eloquence flowed as freely from her charming lips as water from a fountain. The roof of inspiration opened the rock. She reminded the gallant men before her of the struggles and trials of their war, of the cause which carried them to the front, of the principles for which they bled, of the honors they had won, of the gratitude to which they were entitled, and of the love they commanded from good women and good men. Fall of passion came, and she had the victory, at one moment, roaring with the mighty voice of soldier in victory, then weeping like women. The scene was hard to describe, though delightful to witness and to feel. Anna, as the woman, surprised all; she had ever accomplished as the advocate of the cause which has engaged her eloquence for so many years. Nobody could describe the enthusiasm of the veterans.
